

SESSION'S WORK IS ABOUT OVER

Legislature Will Have To Give The Governor Time To Affix His Signature To The Bills.

WHAT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED NOW

Brief Resume Of The Laws That Have Been Passed And The Legislation That Has Been Discussed Most Prominently.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., June 5.—The Wisconsin legislature of 1909 has practically completed its record. While a large list of bills are still in the grinding of the most important product of the session is now in statute form and the opinion being of general prevalence that this legislature wholly determined the many perplexing problems presented. It is true, nevertheless, that the greatest problem involving subjects of advanced character were postponed of solution and made the subjects of careful special committee investigations, which will be dealt with at a special session next January. Those postponed subjects include: Industrial insurance, income tax, insurance of bank deposits, taxation of water power franchises, state aid to road building and the question of the university faculty or the state superintendent of schools for entrance to the university. Special committees will investigate those questions will begin meetings in August.

While the state treasury was by no means fat and appropriations were necessarily cut, the legislature has been able to authorize expenditures with a fairly liberal hand. Approximately $7,000,000 of expenditures were authorized for the coming two years, the main appropriations being $1,200,000 a year for the university, nearly $1,000,000 a year for the capital if the state of the treasury warrants, and also ample appropriations for the administration of the laws and the several state departments.

The "senatorial primary" investigation has struck along through the entire session and much good has been resultant from it in clearing up the atmosphere of the legislature as well as making a perpetual bar for a campaign fund of more than $100,000 in the future.

The legislature has left the liquor question practically where it found it. Several minor excise laws were passed, but the main battle of county option and other important ideas have been turned down. One of the bills passed was prohibiting anyone under 21 years of age from being in a room.

In the way of railroad legislation, the most important bill passed is a measure greatly extending the powers of the railroad commission, in that it provides that no freight rate can be increased in Wisconsin without a thirty-day notice to the commission and giving the commission power to suspend such rates from operation and to compel the railroad upon hearing to show the justice of the proposed increase. The other railway legislation has been of a comparatively inconsequential character, being for the most part what is known as service bills. Among the important measures of this character which may be mentioned is the law which provides that where the distance between the car stop and the nearest platform is more than fifteen inches, a portable step must be provided. Short excursions are forbidden by another act. Three measures passed enlarge the powers of the commission as to the review of freight overcharges.

Another bill which passed gives to the commission the power to order the depression or elevation of railroad tracks, and further provides that the commission can assess the damages and order changes in highways necessary to elevation or depression of tracks. This bill applies not only to cities but also to country crossings, and means the eventual abolishment everywhere in the state of dangerous crossings.

A companion to the crossing measure is the same trade law, which enlarges the powers of the commission as to the building of spur tracks. Still as to the building of spur tracks, the other gives to common councils the right to regulate docks and dredging, this being a railroad measure to a great extent because of their ownership of this class of property. Another law allows free or reduced transportation to be given to immigration agents.

Legislation in electric railway matters is really marked by what failed to be accomplished rather than what was accomplished. One of the bills passed was prohibiting anyone under

TO TAKE "MICHIGAN" ON HER TRIAL TRIP

New Battleship To Leave Yards Today for Week's Tests off Rockland, Maine.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Camden, N. J., June 5.—The new battleship Michigan left the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Company today for her trial next week over the measured course off Rockland, Me. It is the first time on record that a new battleship has gone to sea for her official trial without a preliminary test. So confident are the builders of her success that they decided to dispense with the usual preliminary trials.

The Michigan is the first of the all big gun battleships of the United States Navy. In appearance and armament she is distinctly different from any of the battleships now flying the American flag. Her most noteworthy features are her four great turrets, out of each of which will protrude a pair of 14-inch guns of the latest and most powerful type. These turrets, which are so arranged that every one of them can be used in a broadside, either to the port or starboard, are mounted on the axial line of the ship, one pair aft and the other forward of the superstructure.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] San Francisco, June 5.—Ambassador Jusserand today presented to San Francisco the gold medal expressing the admiration of the French republic for the wonderful rehabilitation of this city since the earthquake. The ceremonies took place in the Orpheum theatre and were simple but impressive. Mayor Taylor accepted the medal in behalf of the city.

Wedded in Rockford: Clarence Roy of this city and Miss Margaret Fahy of Belleville were wedded yesterday afternoon at Rockford by County Judge L. M. Rockwood.

ASSEMBLYMEN WANT MORE INVESTIGATION

Members Want Insurance Commissioner's Conduct Looked Up And Report Made on Greek Letter Societies.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., June 5.—Two unexpected resolutions bearing possibility of exceedingly interesting and important developments were introduced into the assembly yesterday afternoon, one by Assemblyman Stock of Superior, being suggestive of factional controversy and one by Assemblyman Lyman Culbertson of Chippewa county being aimed at Greek Letter secret societies at the university. Each provides for an investigation.

The Stock resolution refers to the charges preferred by former Deputy Insurance Commissioner Heed, alleging unlawful charging and retaining of fees, refers to other charges against other departments in the capital and provides that the speaker appoint five assemblymen to investigate such charges and report to the special session next January.

The Culbertson resolution describes the Greek Letter fraternities and sororities as destructive of the democracy, which should exist in the university and calls upon the faculty to investigate and make recommendations to the legislature with a view to either abolishing the secret societies or eliminating the evils. Assemblyman Culbertson himself, during his university days, belonged to two fraternities, but declares that he has become convinced that their presence today is most unwholesome.

Among the important bills passed were:

1068 (Blaine) For county administrator to enforce inheritance tax laws. County to get 10 per cent of tax.

461a (Diach) Authorize state board of agriculture to purchase additional state fair lands.

423a (Scott) Submission of city ordinances to people upon petition.

924a (Com.) Providing for the establishing of trade schools.

The general fish and game bill will be taken up by the assembly today, sometime before noon. It developed at the meeting of the assembly yesterday afternoon that the G. A. R. men of the state were opposed to the opening of the fishing season before June 1. The date in the senate bill for the open season was May 25, but the assembly will attempt to amend this when the bill comes up for amendment and passage later in the day.

BIG JUBILEE IN ITALY'S CAPITAL

IS GOLDEN FESTIVAL OF AMERICAN COLLEGE THERE.

NOTED ALUMNI GATHER

TO Take Part In Celebration Which Will Last a Week—Change of Name Proposed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Rome, June 5.—When the members of the Italian royal family looked out of the windows of the Quirinal palace today they could not fail to see the intermingled stars and stripes and the golden flags which decorated the group of buildings occupying the entire square between the Via dell' Umbria and the Piazza dell' Pilotta, bordering the Quirinal Hill. The buildings were those of the North American College and the decorations were in honor of the golden jubilee of the famous institution which has educated many of the most brilliant of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and priesthood in the United States.

The religious exercises and festivities attending the jubilee celebration will begin tomorrow and will continue through the entire week. More than one hundred members of the number are Mr. Falco, the Papal delegate at Washington; Archbishop Farley of New York; Archbishop O'Connell of Boston; Bishop of Savannah, Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn, Bishop Hoban of Scranton; Bishop Burke of St. Joseph, and Bishop of Baltimore.

Week's programme of religious, business and social duties has been prepared. The chief event of the programme will be private audience with Pope Pius X, at which the Rev. Dr. Francis H. Wall, president of the alumni association, will read a Latin address and present the Pope with a jubilee offering of Peter's Pence. A visit to the cemetery of St. Lawrence, where several of their members are buried, is planned by the alumni.

Another feature will be the opening of the new baseball field at Villa Confalonieri, which has succeeded the Grattafarina as the summer home of the students. At the initial game an immense flag, the gift of Rodman Wammaker of Philadelphia, will be raised.

One of the principal matters to be considered by the gathering is: the proposal to change the name of the North American College to the United States College. It is urged in behalf of the proposal that only residents of the United States attend the institution, the Canadians having a college of their own, and the Mexicans attending the South American College, where their native tongue is spoken.

The American College has had an interesting history. Its earliest efforts were due largely to the earnest efforts of Archbishop-Bishop, secretary to the College of the Propaganda Fide, who in 1853 had been Papal Pro-Nuncio to the United States. In promoting the project Archbishop Bodini had the hearty co-operation of Archbishop Hughes, of New York, and other American prelates. For the home of the college and edifice was acquired on the Via dell' Umbria, the history of which dated back to 1603, and which had been used in 1851 by the French Army of Occupation. Here the college started its career in 1859 with thirteen students on its roster. It soon outgrew its original home and from time to time additional buildings were acquired. The buildings and grounds now occupy an entire square bordering on the Quirinal Hill.

Dom Bernardo Smith, O. S. B., professor of Dogmatic Theology at the Propaganda, was the first pro-rector of the new institution. Pope Pius IX, in a practical manner, early showed his interest in the welfare of the institution, and each of his successors on the throne of St. Peter has shown his interest in the American College. "Aid Nord" in every way possible.

The American college is incorporated by the legislature of Maryland. The present trustees are Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, Archbishop Farley of New York and Archbishop O'Connell of Boston. In fifty years the college has had six rectors. They were the Rev. Drs. William G. McCloskey, Francis S. Chantard, Louis E. Hoatlet, Dennis J. O'Connell, William H. O'Connell and Thomas F. Kennedy, all of whom are living except the Rev. Dr. Hoatlet.

The American college is but one of many such institutions in the city of Rome. All of the leading nations of the world maintain here a similar college for their theological students. They attend the College of the Propaganda Fide for all lectures in theology which are delivered in Latin, and for those in the natural sciences, which are given in Italian. Often representatives of thirty-five different nations sit side by side in the classrooms. Only the languages and music are taught in the native tongues, which nevertheless occupy an important place in the educational system of the Roman Catholic church.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL ELECTED PRESIDENT

Of Association of State Fire Marshals of Six States and Canada—T. M. Purcell the Man.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., June 5.—State Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell returned last night from the State Fire Marshals' Association of America meeting which was held at Louisville, Ky. He finds a general spread in the states of fire marshal laws, as a medium to reduce the amount of loss by fires of incendiary origin. Not only was Mr. Purcell elected president of the national organization but he succeeded in bringing the next convention to Milwaukee.

Among states represented were Ohio, West Virginia, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Canada.

Two places were considered as possibilities for the next state convention, Madison and Milwaukee. After considerable discussion of the matter Milwaukee was finally chosen as the next place of meeting and May 17th and 18th as the time.

Mr. Purcell was one of the speakers at the Louisville convention upon the subject of "A Suggestion for Cooperation with Fire Chiefs." In this talk he declared that the state fire marshal co-operate with the chiefs of the fire department by making the chief his deputies, giving them full power to investigate conditions, fires, and authority to order changes necessary to evade general fire hazards.

Following are the officers elected by the society for the year:

President—T. M. Purcell, Madison, Wis.

Vice-president—F. A. Craft, South Dakota.

DOLLIVER OPENS FIRE ON ALDRICH AND ASSOCIATES

Denounces Their Attitude Towards Cotton Tariff Schedule In A Ringing Speech To The Senate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., June 5.—In a ringing speech Senator Dolliver today denounced the plea made by Senator Aldrich last night on the cotton schedule. "I desire to avoid any harsh criticism of what has been done," he said, "but I'm not able to avoid a plain, straightforward statement of what finance committee now asks the senate to do."

"Men are asked," continued Dolliver, "to cast their votes here not upon testimony but upon the authority of a committee, and it becomes my duty to inquire into this sacredness that is substituted for facts and figures."

As he was proceeding, Aldrich rose to leave the chamber. "I hope the Senator will remain to hear what I have to say," suggested Dolliver in an appealing tone of voice.

"I find an engagement," said Aldrich, smiling and hesitating.

"Well you have engagement here, too," Dolliver said, "I say you will not turn your back upon that I have to say without taking moral consequences that will naturally arise in such a case."

Dolliver then exhibited a copy of a petition from the merchants of New York which was a declaration against any increase in tariff duties.

A crescendo of criticism and defense followed. Aldrich and Flint contending that the petitioners were importers and interested in low tariffs, while Dolliver continued to urge their general representative capacity. "It's a strange thing," declared Dolliver, riding to his full height and speaking in his boldest tone, "to find leaders of the republican party reproaching merchants of the country with extravagance which have grown up in connection with the protective tariff."

PRAISE FOR MAGOON IN TAFT'S MESSAGE

Barry, who was in command of the United States military forces.

To Wed June 17: Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Stella M. Walker of this city and Lynn L. Applewall of Ft. Atkinson, which takes place in this city on Thursday, June 17.

FACTIONAL POLITICS PLAY LARGE PART

Assembly Plunge Sweeping Investigation of the Different Offices.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., June 5.—The assembly today adopted a resolution to investigate the state treasurer's, insurance commissioner's, and other departments. Assemblyman Ingram's substitute bringing in the governor for not removing certain porcupine by active state employees was killed by a vote of 43 to 33. Ingram introduced a resolution requiring the attorney general to bring suits against former insurance commissioners for the recovery of fees. The closing days of the session are big with the playing of factional politics. State Treasurer Dahl's bill for reimbursement for $400 costs incurred in his attempt to discharge two civil service employees was killed by the senate.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

YOU can't very often get something for nothing in this world. That appears to be a fairly axiomatic statement, but while they all doubtless realize it in a vague way, I don't believe that more than one woman out of three grasps it as a business proposition. And on the other two, that class of persons who pretend to give much for little or something for nothing and in reality give very little for very much or nothing for something, flourish and wax fat.

Women are certainly peculiarly disposed to this form of hopefulness. You will realize that if you recall that when you read in your newspaper of the crash of some wildcat scheme that was advertised to pay enormous dividends and make the fortunes of all who embarked their savings in it, you are pretty apt to find it mentioned that poor school teachers' savings and widows' scrapings and old maids' hoardings made up the bulk of the money lost.

It is foolish money, too, as a rule, that goes into the purses of the scamps who promise to teach young people a trade "that will enable you to earn twenty dollars a week in a few months," or to do some light work at home "that will bring you from ten to twenty dollars a week, pleasant work and absolutely simple."

I had the pleasure recently of assisting at the exposure of a scamp who made thousands out of the first of these two schemes. For a certain sum he agreed to give instructions for a period of "three months and longer if necessary," and also promised a position "when competent, with a reliable firm." The clever wording of the contract, the "longer if necessary," and the "when competent" let him out safely. Girl after girl paid her money and went to his school until she learned the little lesson, that an offer to procure her the money with three months' training (that most men have to work some years to be able to earn) was simply one of the innumerable branches of the something for nothing fake.

My next door neighbor answered one of the "pleasant work at home" advertisements. They asked her to do some embroidery which they would sell. She made several articles. Although she is an accomplished needle woman, she said no woman could well be, they found in each article a flaw which they said would make it impossible for them to pay her. They did not, however, return the articles. This conclusion was obvious.

A young man I know who was getting a very good salary with a reliable firm told me that his mother was continually urging him to answer some of the advertisements that promised "large salary for a bright young man—no experience required." An experiment or two, which showed him that a big deposit, ostensibly for "samples," was the inevitable preliminary to such positions, was quite enough for him but not for his mother. She was perennially hopeful.

So, alas, are quite too many women. For though hopefulness is a good thing, when you are going to apply it to business it is well to mix a good deal of logic with it.

John Early seated in his tent on the outskirts of Washington, his wife, and baby.

(By Special Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C.—For over a year John Early, his wife and baby have lived the lives of outcasts in the very heart of the country. Early had a varied career before he was condemned to the life of a leper under the direction of the Washington board of health. He at one time worked in a pulp mill in North Carolina. Then he enlisted as a soldier and when discovered to be a leper, as the authorities then thought and still maintain, he was in the Salvation army.

Early has never believed he had leprosy and though frequent examinations have been to the same effect, he has never given up the hope that at some time he will be free from his solitary existence and be allowed to mingle with his fellow men.

Last Sunday night an eminent New York leper specialist, Dr. Hildrey, visited Early privately and without the permission of the board of health, although a constant guard was maintained over Early. He gave Early a thorough examination and took a culture from the patient's forehead. Early has placed great confidence in the decision of this eminent specialist, who while refusing to state definitely that he did not have leprosy until he should have tested the culture, still extended unusual hope to John Early.

Dr. Fowler, who has charge of the contagious disease branch of the health department, is just as certain today as he was when Early was placed in quarantine that the former Salvationist and soldier has leprosy, but if he had not the disease, Dr. Fowler asserted, he would only be too glad to have him released from his present abode. Both the health officer and Dr. Fowler think the specialist who took the culture found that Early had leprosy, believing that otherwise a favorable conclusion would have been reported before today, the culture having been taken last Sunday.

Before going to the leper home, Dr. Fowler was inclined to discredit the report of a specialist having been at Early's house last Sunday, but upon reaching the home Early did not hesitate to say he had been visited and gave the name of the New York physician as the man who had paid the visit. Dr. Fowler admitted that he thought Early looked much better than he did when he was placed in quarantine, but, he also contended, the evidences of leprosy are still there. Early has been seen by several health officers since his arrival in camp," stated Dr. Fowler, "and they reported he had a typical case of the disease. They were men who had seen cases of leprosy."

Early was found in front of his house this morning when Dr. Fowler and a reporter called to see him. With him was Harry O. Brown, one of the three watchmen employed to prevent him from coming in contact with other persons, while a short distance away were the members of Early's family. Early did not hesitate to furnish the name of the specialist and to say that the latter was in his quarters long enough to "make an examination of him and take a culture from his forehead."

That Early believes he is not afflicted with leprosy was made plain to the reporter, who visited the camp and conversed with him. "I believe," he said, "that the red-dish brown spots on me came from working in the pulp mill in North Carolina. There was a strong acid used there in powdered form and I believe it is responsible for all my troubles. I am satisfied it is not leprosy."

Asked about his condition, Early said he felt perfectly well, his only ailment being a touch of malaria, which he attributed to the marshes and damp so near his house. Mosquitoes were more than plentiful about his house last evening, and he thought they might carry disease. He had used no medicine since November, he said, adding that medicine given him when he was placed in quarantine upset his stomach so much that he knew he could not ward off any disease.

He would not discuss the visit of the specialist any more than to say he was an eminent man in his profession. He felt that the result of the investigation would show he was not afflicted with the leprosy. It was stated that a report from the specialist was expected in the near future, and it was thought he would probably pay Early another visit, soon.

Early works in the garden and about the lawn, and also looks after his chickens. A watchman is on duty about the vicinity of his house at all hours, and persons who call are permitted to converse with him at a safe distance. Early never misses an opportunity to discuss religious matters with his callers, saying he believes his mission on earth is to save souls and do good. His house is but a short distance from the water, where its occupant has a good view of the Annapolis river and freight tracks of the Pennsylvania railway. He hopes he will not have to remain there much longer.

North Dakota senator against family in government employ.

Senator J. J. McCumber.

Washington, D. C.—Senator McCumber has taken a stand against more than one member of a family holding government positions. This is decidedly revolutionary and has created much excitement. His speech outlining his views was delivered in the senate this week and had the effect of causing an investigation which may lead to the dismissal of many persons. There is a provision covering this in the civil service regulations, and Secretary Nagel of commerce and labor has ordered an inquiry in his department.

Great Men of Low Birth.

Many of our greatest men were the sons of obscure parents. Thomas Moore was the son of a grocer, Rembrandt of a miller, Euripides of a fruit-corer, Virgil of a baker, Horace of a freed slave, Anaxot of a currier, Voltaire of a tax-gatherer, Lamont of a hatter, Sixtus the fifth of a swine-bird, Fletcher of a chandler, Mussillon of a turner, Tamerlane of a shepherd, Rollin of a herdsman, Rousseau of a watchmaker, Mollere of an upholsterer, Ben Johnson of a mason, Shakespeare of a butcher, Sir Thomas Lawrence of a custom-house officer, Collins of a hatter, Gray of a notary, Beattie of a farmer, Edward Sugden of a banker, Quaint of his Ivoryman.—Scraps' Book.

Poor Official Opinion.

Magistrate says a police whistle is the best protection against violence. Have great respect for the opinion of the bench, all the way from the supreme court down to the ranger who deals out even-handed justice south of the Pecos, but hold that when a fellow is beating you over the scones with a blackjack it's no time to be doing solos on a piccolo in the hope of getting assistance from an overworked policeman.—New York Telegram.

The Sewers of Paris.

Paris has the most extensive system of drainage in the world. The vast network of sewers runs under the city, having a total length of more than 1,000 miles. The construction is said to have cost nearly $30,000,000. The maintenance and cleansing of the sewers cost the city about $500,000 annually and employ about 1,000 men. Water pipes, telegraph and telephone wires and pneumatic tubes pass through the sewers, but gas pipes are excluded for fear of explosion. Visitors are conveyed through the sewers by electric trains or by boats towed by electric traction.

SAW POPE PIUS IN ROYAL ROBES

MISS BELLE SHERER WITNESSED GREAT CEREMONY AT ST. PETER'S.

WILL REACH VENICE TODAY

Janesville Young Lady Tells About Ancient Monastery at Amalfi and Other Interesting Sights in Italy.

Miss Clara Belle Sherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Sherer, of the party of thirteen California young ladies who are making an extended tour of Europe, expected to arrive in Venice today, after a lengthy sojourn in Naples, Italy, and vicinity. Later on they will go to Switzerland; thence to Paris, France; and after a trip on the Rhine they will cross the channel to England and visit London and the Shakespeare country, returning to America in September.

At Ancient Monastery. The following very interesting letter was received from Miss Sherer today:

Hotel Capuchini Convent, Amalfi, Italy, Sunday, May 16th. This is the most beautiful morning that I ever saw and we are in such a delightful spot. Just finished breakfast and we are out in the pergola, which is a beauty, so long and quite wide, covered over with vines and loads of flowers at the sides. There are tables and chairs, and benches and we may look out at the wooded mountain on one side, or at the blue sea on the other.

Our hotel is again an old monastery, so picturesque and lovely. It is exactly as it was seven hundred years ago, the cells are small, with little beds, a table, a corner of chairs and a candle and the corridors so ancient, everything inside and out being pure white and so cheerful.

To get up here we climbed two hundred and sixty-four steps, but it is many times worth the climb, for the view is superb, an "enchanted land"—Longfellow.

I wish you were here with us. I can't imagine such awful weather as you have had—rain, snow and the like—for here every day has been simply perfect, always warm and sunny with no clouds in the sky.

The hotel is packed. Andrew Carnegie, wife and daughter were here yesterday.

Visit in Rome. Rome, Thursday, May 20th.—Well, here I am in Rome and it seems more like a dream than a reality. In the first place, up to this time the cities and towns have been so much smaller and more quiet, while this is big and bustling, something like New York, and thus seems more like home. We shall stay ten days.

Fete at Ravello. To go back to Amalfi: Sunday afternoon we took carriages for a beautiful drive up and around the mountain to the little town of Ravello, where we found the peasants enjoying a festive day.

All were out in the street, buying everything from live pigs to lemonade and cakes.

It was lots of fun to watch them, though I felt sorry for the poor little hairless pigs that were knocked about and dragged away, each with a leg tied and squealing pitifully. The band played in the meantime and we mingled in with the people, finally going with them to their cathedral and watching the services, which was a sight indeed.

Our party afterward went to the most magnificent grounds that I ever saw, the garden of some wealthy people who spend most of their summers there. Such lovely flowers of every kind and description, fine trees and plants, with here and there old stone fountains bubbling out their cool waters. It was grand and our ride home at twilight was a fitting ending to an interesting afternoon. Monday morning at 7 o'clock we left Amalfi for the charming drive to Sorrento.

We reached here about noon and were starving hungry as usual.

Bath in Mediterranean. After lunch I took a short nap, from which I was aroused by the girls' yelling that we were all going in bathing. I protested, never having been in the water, but they insisted, so I was initiated in the Mediterranean and enjoyed it as much as the rest.

Monday night we saw the famous Tarantella danced in the courtyard of our hotel, there being about six, ten dancers and a good-sized orchestra. It was fine and all the people from neighboring hotels came to see it.

The Blue Grotto. Tuesday at 10 a. m. we left for Capri and the Blue Grotto. The entrance to the latter is so small that as we came through, all had to lie down in the bottom of the boats so as not to bump our heads. Only two can go in a boat with the rower.

"Was gorgeous, so blue, blue, satin. The water is fifty feet deep and so transparent that we could see the bottom."

Near the rocks, were shades of pink and green and you can imagine its beauty. We took our steamer again at 4 p. m. and sailed back past Sorrento to Naples, which did seem homelike to us, this being our third visit there. We ate a good dinner and ere long were glad to return. The next morning, Wednesday, we spent packing, shopping and so on and at 1:20 o'clock boarded a train for Rome and rode until 6 p. m.

It was a long, hot and awfully dirty journey, though we were fortunate in having an express train which made only one stop.

Saw the Pope. This morning I was up at six o'clock and dressed for this holy day among the Catholics. Today was the canonization of the saint Joseph Orioli and Clemente Maria Hofbauer at St. Peter's cathedral and we had the golden opportunity to see it, though we stood five hours in a perfect jam.

"I was well worth it, for we saw the Pope in his great garments, with hundreds of cardinals, priests, guards, etc. There were many choirs of men who sang beautifully and the music was grand."

The cathedral is exquisite and was lighted with thousands of candles. Such a sight! The Pope is lovely to look at with such a calm, loving countenance, and we do hope for a private audience with him. This glorious affair was one to remember for a lifetime. C. B. A.

BELOIT WOMAN LOST A VALUABLE RING

He Had Told Her That to Read Her Future He Must Have Something She Had Worn.

A clairvoyant who has been doing a big business in Beloit for the past month has left town, without leaving word where he was going or when he would return, and with him, it is said, has gone the diamond wedding ring of a well known Beloit woman. He told her he would have to have something she had worn in order to "read" her future. She sent him the ring, she says, by her daughter. The clairvoyant is said to have told the lady that a business man here had given him $1,000 to aid him in starting a new domestic trouble and averting a threatened divorce suit. He did not say who the business man was.

CITY VISITED BY SEVERE RAIN AND WIND STORM

Streets Were Covered Into Small Rivers at Seven O'Clock Last Evening—Sun Shone All the While.

Janesville was visited by a severe thunder and wind storm from the north about seven o'clock last evening and for a few minutes the rain fell in torrents and converted the thoroughfares into rushing streams. At the corner of River and Milwaukee streets the waters were unable to take care of the large volume of water and it became a miniature lake, stretching from curb to curb and always heading these barriers. Trees were swayed and twisted by the gale; the lightning flashed at frequent intervals; and all the while the sun, dimly visible in the west, flooded the whole scene with a strange, suffused light and hung a great rain bow across the eastern sky. Poughs were wrrenched from the trees in some instances but no great damage was done by the baby hurricane.

The Aura.

Around each one there is a luminous mist which corresponds to the atmosphere around the earth. In this atmosphere, called the aura, the thoughts, good and bad, strong and weak, are imprinted. The body corresponds to the earth, the emotions to the dew and rain. The mental conditions are like the wind, while the spiritual acts as the sunshine, in vitalizing the reality of self—Science and Key of Life.

Men Can Care for Themselves.

HOT TIMES FOR THE Y BUSINESS MEN

Baseball Players Get Up a Good Sweat But Have Fine Time Yesterday Afternoon.

Levy's Reds were again defeated by Skelly's Blues in the baseball game played by members of the Y. M. C. A. Business Men's class yesterday afternoon at Athletic Park. Early in the game it looked like a victory for Levy's men as the score stood 3 to 2 in their favor, but Skelly's players got in some good slick work and secured six runs, feeling sure of the victory. The Reds let up on their good playing slightly and the Reds got in three more runs. The game ended 9 to 6 in the Skelly team's favor.

The contest furnished good sport and exercise for all who played and much amusement for spectators. Some of the old-time players who have not taken a more active part in any game, beyond that of a look-on, for some time, find that they have not lost entirely all of their art and cleverness in playing. Yesterday's contest was replete with grandstand scenes by ex-players and beginners as well. Jesse Baris electrified the attendance by a two-bagger bringing in two others who were on bases. He also showed himself to be of the light-foot squad, gamboing nimbly about in the outfield. The third-base "steal" by Thomas Nolan was worthy of the exploits of "Ty" Cobb. Walter Taylor, in the third inning, by a mad sprint, captured a foul hit off first base. L. Levy starred as short stop, hitting like a professional. J. C. Kline again was in evidence with the "big stick," tallying two hits. L. P. Blair as left field and catch was all that could be expected in those positions. D. B. Manross was an able sprinter, turning many a "baseline" successfully, and otherwise. Sleep, in the box for Levy, was anything but what his name would signify. G. W. Skelly made a long drive putting the ball in the "pond."

Batteries for Skelly were: Sleep and Kline, and for Levy, Nolan, Stout, Dougherty, Gray and Blair.

Light from Crystals.

Many crystals when split or crushed give a faint flash of light visible in the dark. Sugar is one of the substances which do this. The cause of this behavior is not very well understood.—From "Nature and Science" in St. Nicholas.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Much has been said and written about "following the bent of genius" and the claim is made by some people that the genius of hard work is all there is to it, and that any man will succeed who possesses ambition and a willingness to work.

But there is another side to the question, for every observing mind has discovered that a workman in any calling is at his best when so absorbed in his work that all else is forgotten, and this is only possible when the right channel is selected.

Dr. Madison C. Peppers is writing a series of "success talks," and this is what he has to say on the time-worn topic:

"Evidences of one's right calling will manifest themselves early in life. Handel, the famous composer, whose father was a physician, was intended for the profession of the law, and the father did all he could to discourage the boy's fondness for music, but he got an old spinnet and practiced on it secretly in a hay loft. He produced an opera before he was 15.

"Galileo, who discovered the principle of the pendulum at 18, and invented both the microscope and telescope, was set apart by his parents for up his hand, but when compelled to study physiology, he would hide his books and secretly work out difficult problems.

"It is a serious mistake for parents to wish their sons to be reproductions of themselves. Don't try to make that boy another you—one of you will do.

"John Jacob Astor's father wanted to make a butcher of his boy, but the commercial instinct was strong enough in him to make him run away from home and come to America. The father of Daniel Webster determined that Daniel should be a farmer. He took the boy out into the field and showed him how to cut hay, but no matter how the father fixed the boy, it did not hang to suit Daniel, until the old man, in despair, exclaimed: 'Get out of the field and hang that scythe to suit yourself!' Daniel, hanging the scythe on a tree, said: 'There it hangs to suit me.'

"Many of the world's most successful men have failed in one or more pursuits until they finally got on the right track. Barum failed in fourteen different occupations, before he discovered that he was a born showman. Goldenfild failed as a physician, but who else could have written 'The Deserter's Village,' Cromwell was a farmer at forty and Grant a tanner at thirty-eight. Moody, an indifferent shoe salesman, became after middle life the world's greatest evangelist. No man will ever do his best until he finds his proper niche.

"All callings in life are alike honorable, if they are useful. I would rather my boy become a shoemaker and put genius in his shoes, than become a preacher, preaching sermons that nobody wants to hear.

"The world does not demand that you should be a great man, but that with a noble purpose, a high endeavor and a useful end in view you shall make yourself a master in your line.

"You may know that you have found your place, if your work is a pleasure to you. If you long for the time to quit, you are on the wrong job. If you go to your work with no more delight than you left it, the job belongs to some other man. When you have found your true calling you will not find nature putting any barriers in your path of progress.

"If you have been boring away in the same old hole for years without striking oil, you have either got too short an auger or you are in the wrong hole. Have the courage to change your occupation until you find the right place. When you strike water you will find use for your fins. 'A rolling stone gathers no moss,' but sometimes a change of pasture makes fat calves."

"If you are on the right track you will not be wondering whether the rails are laid, down right—you will know it by the way things run. In the right place you will be resourceful, happy and contented, you will expand and grow and be at least comparatively successful. You may not make a fortune in a congenial occupation; it is possible to be a millionaire and still be a failure."

Fortunate the boy who has a father or teacher who is wise enough to help him discover the bent of his genius. Next to honesty it is the most valuable asset for a foundation on which to build the structure of a life.

The manual training department of the public schools is of great importance because it educates the hand as well as the mind, and a large majority of the boys are destined to a life of hard work where skill governs earning capacity.

This department is valuable and intensely practical for another reason. It helps the teacher to discover for the boy the kind of work to which he is best adapted, so that when he leaves school his life work is laid out for him, and instead of becoming a drifter he finds a place in the ranks of toilers where work soon becomes a pleasure because it satisfies ambition.

The bent of genius is not difficult to discover. If a boy possesses commercial instincts he is a good trader and his chance soon discover that he is well supplied with trading property and always ready to do business. It would be a waste of time for this kind of a boy to learn a trade. What he needs is a good knowledge of the market and a place behind the counter early in life, so that he may have the discipline so necessary to mercantile success.

If, on the other hand, he has mechanical genius, the symptoms are as readily recognized. He builds boats and cars, likes to be around machinery and is never so happy as when trying to construct something with his hands.

A few years ago a boy of this kind came to himself, after spending three or four years in an office attempting to do work for which he had no liking, and meeting with indifferent success.

When the fact dawned upon him that he was wasting time to no purpose he said to his employer: "I believe that I can do better in some other field," and after unfolding his plans he was advised to go. Today he is at the head of a prosperous manufacturing business. Success came to him because he found the channel to which he was adapted.

Help the boy discover the bent of his genius and if he possesses ambition and determination the battle is half won on the first lap of the journey.

The open shop is really the bone of contention which resulted in the unionists' strike in Chicago. Recognition of the union is rapidly disappearing in the industrial world, and the right of every man to work is recognized.

Senator La Follette will discover that talking against time, at this stage of the game is anything but popular. The country is waiting just now for congress to do something, and oratory is at a discount.

Assemblyman Whitte of Rock is being complimented by the press of the state for his intelligent work in defeating the twin-bipolar plant bill.

The Brownsville negro soldiers are to have a chance for their lives, and many of them will be rehabilitated by President Taft.

Mrs. Taft has set the pace for economy by discharging two-thirds of the servants at the white house.

TARSUS.

Let brotherly love continue.—Paul.

Saul of Tarsus—how the world has changed over that name for twice a thousand years!

Today as I write they are killing people in the vile, heathen streets of Tarsus—continuation of a tragedy centuries long.

Once a great city where Antony and Cleopatra walked, where the patrician built his villa by the sea, under the rule of the Moslem squallid huts now mark the site of proud Tarsus of the first century.

The city was the boyhood home of a little Jewish tentmaker whose philosophy has changed the world.

Having seen the great light, this little Jew sprang up in him and then went to his native city to tell the story of the new and universal brotherhood. But Tarsus would not listen.

But Paul went away with Barnabas on missionary journeys, and after perils by land and sea he went to Imperial Rome with his sublime message.

Home put him in bonds. She left the bloody, headless body of the apostle to the gentiles on the road to Ostia. But some had heard and heeded even in the household of Nero, and in 300 years Paul's religion was the religion of Rome.

But Tarsus, like Galilee, "cared for none of these things."

Paul's religion leavened Europe. It shook the world. Christian civilization grew and sent missionaries, 2,000 years after Paul, to Tarsus. And Tarsus killed the missionaries.

Poor, lost Tarsus.

Century following century it rejected the only doctrine on which men can build their society—the brotherhood of man.

Cities and nations that have heeded the teachings of Saul of Tarsus have grown and flourished. Cities and nations that, like Tarsus, have clung to provincial selfishness and to the propaganda of hatred and exclusiveness have dwindled and dropped and died.

Paul's doctrine of brotherly love is dynamic.

Even the Moslem under the influence of Christian schools has learned somewhat the lesson of religious tolerance.

And the young Turks, many of whose leaders are fresh from the Christian colleges established in Turkey by Christian missionaries, have arisen to the successful demand of real parliamentary government.

While Tarsus remains an object lesson for the slow, moving finger of scorn.

WILL JANESVILLE CELEBRATE DAY?

MASS MEETING TO DISCUSS 4th OF JULY CELEBRATION.

EVERYONE INVITED TO COME

Will Be Held Tuesday Evening at the Assembly Room of the City Hall.

On Tuesday evening at seven-thirty a mass meeting will be held in the Assembly room of the city hall to discuss the holding of a Fourth of July celebration in Janesville this year. All are requested to be present to fully discuss the question.

Per Committee.

In explanation of the above notice it might be stated that the committee calling this meeting is composed of representative business men of the city. Several informal gatherings have been held and it was thought best to call a mass meeting so that the matter could be thoroughly discussed and all phases of the question looked at.

Coming from Chicago, expecting a celebration, are some three or four hundred former residents of Janesville. They have been making plans for the trip up for some months past and one of the committee having charge of the Chicago excursion back to the "Old Folks at Home" was surprised that Janesville was not making plans for their pleasure and enjoyment.

Their plans now are to come on a special train accompanied by a band and they are counting on Janesville having a good old fashioned celebration which will give them lots of fun and really be in the shape of a homecoming for many of them who have not been back to the city for many years.

The self-constituted committee that has called the meeting for Tuesday evening states that they have made inquiries and find that a majority of the merchants in the city favor a celebration this year, and that there can be a running demonstration in honor of Old Folks at Home if the proper enthusiasm is shown.

Aside from the Chicago party there are several former residents of Janesville who live in Minneapolis, and they have written down asking whether Janesville will celebrate or not, and if one is to be held they propose getting up a party to come down. It is certain that Janesville will draw a big crowd if a celebration is decided on and this is the question to be discussed Tuesday evening at seven-thirty at the city hall.

SPECIAL PROGRAM PLANNED FOR MEN'S SUNDAY MEETINGS

Topics of Interest Will Be Discussed at Sunday Session at Y. M. C. A. During This Month.

During the month of June a special effort is being made to secure good speakers and music for the men's meetings at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. Tomorrow afternoon J. A. Craig, general manager of the Janesville Machine company, will speak on "Life's Harvest." A cordial invitation is extended to every man in the city. A cool room with an electric fan affords an opportunity to spend a pleasant and profitable hour. The special music will consist of two violins, trombone, cornet, cello, piano, and male quartette. The old familiar songs will be sung by all. The purpose of these meetings is to provide an opportunity for men of all classes to help each other by their presence and influence in a practical and yet informal meeting together of men is a helpful adjunct to the life of any city. Every man has good influence if properly directed with the movements in his community which have for their aim the development of the individual and the welfare of the community. Therefore, the presence and influence of every man is needed to maintain a standard of life that will be emphasized to all young men as desirable.

WILL INVITE THE CONVENTION HERE FOR NEXT YEAR

Janesville Aerle of Eagles Instruct Their Delegates to Get 1910 Gathering of Their Order.

At the regular meeting of the Janesville Aerle of Eagles it was decided to instruct their five delegates to invite the 1910 state convention of the order to make Janesville their convention city. The five delegates leave for Wausau, the scene of this year's meeting, on the 21st and expect to be able to secure the convention for Janesville.

A successful meeting will probably be held in June of next year, although it has been suggested that they come the first week of July and combine a Fourth celebration with the other entertainments offered. J. C. Nichols, J. J. Cunningham, Hugh Joyce, Jr., E. B. Connor, Fred J. Schmitt, are the Janesville delegates who will attend as the representatives of the local Aerle.

WILLIAM BRADLEY HAS SUCCEDED

To the Accident Which Cost Him His Right Foot Last Night—Run Down by Interurban Car.

William Bradley of Rockford and Roscoe, at one time a talented musician but of late years a victim of strong drink, had his right foot cut off at the instep by an incoming interurban car, Conductor James Clark, just north of the Jackson street bridge at 10:55 last evening, and may not recover from the shock. The tendons were so badly torn that it was necessary for Dr. W. A. Munn and Fletcher to amputate above the ankle and it was reported that the patient was in a deep stupor and that his condition was considered very grave.

The unfortunate man was sleeping in a clump of high grass nine feet from the sidewalk on the south side of Riverside street and on the east side of the track, with his one foot on the rail, when the accident occurred. Even if there had been an electric light in that vicinity, the motorman would have been unable to see him in time on account of a telephone pole which obstructed the view.

According to J. D. King and Frank Snyder, who were passengers and who telephoned for the ambulance and medical assistance, the car was going at a rate of 7 or 8 miles an hour and was brought to a stop within 30 feet.

Bradley has been a well-known character on the local streets and only a few days ago sentenced for drunkenness was suspended on his promise to leave town for good. His single exclamation when he realized what had happened to him was "Poor old man's foot!" All the way to the hospital he kept calling for liquor. He is 62 years of age and has been in a terrible condition from over-indulgence in strong drink for several weeks past.

The lack of a street lamp in that locality has been held responsible for several accidents during the past twelvemonth. Mrs. Eliza Churchill of the town of Harmony was badly injured there in alighting from a car one dark night last August, and Charles O'Malley collected $300 damages and a doctor's bill of $200 for a fall and fracture of a limb in that vicinity last winter.

Just as the papers were going to press word was received that the man had passed away at half-past two o'clock. Dr. James Bradley of Toledo is a brother of the deceased.

PLEASURE SEEKERS SAVED FROM DEATH

W. W. Taylor Saved Lives of Two Catholics Who Were Caught in Storm Last Night.

Willie W. Taylor, who is employed as a switchman by the C. M. & St. P. railroad, while spending a short vacation up the river, was instrumental in saving the lives of two Catholics who were caught on the water by the heavy storm last evening and in great danger of capsizing and drowning.

The couple, a man and a woman, who refused to give their names, were out in a canoe when the storm came up, and the wind and rain threatened to send their frail craft to the bottom. Mr. Taylor, who is spending a few days at the Taylor cottage at the Reid Bros. farm, seeing their plight, put out in a boat and rescued them, earning their eternal gratitude both by his action in saving their lives and by refusing to divulge their names.

THREE BALL GAMES WERE HELD TODAY

Commercial League's Games Continue to Attract Considerable Attention of Fans.

This afternoon the Y. M. C. A. and Wisconsin Carriage company teams of the Commercial league crossed bats at the Fair Grounds, while the Gazette and Parker Pen teams of the same league met at Y. M. C. A. park. The Janesville Machine company and the Lewis Kutting company fought it out at Dunn's pasture.

While the "home" game for the league, which was to have been played last Monday between the Janesville city team and the "All Stars" did not materialize owing to the rain, some "sixteen dollars in money" was paid at the gates and when the fans were told they might, if willing, contribute to the league's treasury for improvement of the grounds they gladly did so, and but few took "rain checks" owing to no game being played.

This evening the board of directors of the league will hold a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss points and settle any differences regarding play, or contested games that may arise. This is the regular monthly meeting and all business of the league will be handled.

LARGE JOB COMPLETED

One of the Largest Steel Tank Jobs Ever Turned Out in Janesville Has Been Recently Completed by a Local Concern.

The F. O. Ambrosio Company, located at 219 E. Milwaukee St., have recently completed a large steel tank, which is to be used by the Hanson Furniture Company for steaming purposes. It is a mammoth affair and is a credit to the ability of the Ambrosio people. Its dimensions are as follows: 20 feet long, 9 feet high and 6 feet wide. It is made with one swinging end which opens so that a whole load of lumber can be placed in it at one time, to undergo the steaming process. It can be seen at the Hanson Furniture Company's plant on North Hickory street.

The Ambrosio Company have been located in Janesville for the past two years, coming here from Jefferson City, Wis., to their present location. They not only make steel tanks, but they make all kinds of machinery, shovels, water towers, etc. They claim their job is too large for them to successfully handle and none too small to have their whole attention.

The council passes upon these permits at the first meeting in July.

HOME FROM A TRIP TO NORTH DAKOTA

Sam Echlin, Ned Whiton, and Clyde Suit Were Delayed Several Days By Big Railroad Washouts.

Sam Echlin, E. V. Whiton, and Clyde Suit returned last evening from a trip to Marmot, North Dakota, where they have been riding the cattle ranges and taking the lay of the country for the fortnight past. For two days they were guests at the ride some of the men and learned to ride the cowboys could lesson from the drove. Big storms and washouts on the C. M. & St. P.'s now extension near Marmot delayed their departure for home several days and the train which finally brought them through picked up way gingerly along tracks which had spread and ditched half a score of locomotives. The long approaches to the bridge over the Missouri river had been belated with huge piles of cement and stones and hundreds of Italian workmen were busy with repairs all along the route. Mr. Suit decided to go into business with his father who conducts a general store at Marmot and is the owner of a small empire of grazing land in that locality. He will remain in Janesville about two weeks before returning to North Dakota.

An innocent "plant" informed that a burglar's "plant" had been uncovered at James O'Rourke's barn on North bluff street. Officers Champion and Panning visited the place yesterday and seized a satchel full of oilers and wrenches and two old coats. The property was later claimed by Adelbert Wheelock, a cripple, who stays at the county farm during the winter and mends gasoline stoves in the summertime. He had asked his brother, Bert, to take them to the McLaughlin home and that was as far as Bert got with them.

The flower city delegation wore fancy hats and were headed by the Utrogoan ladies' band of Holleville. The Elks go to Nominat and Memphis next year and Wausau will entertain the U. C. T.

Erroneous Report That Mrs. W. T. Vankirk Was Injured. Rumor started she was thrown from Buggy in Runaway Proved to be Without Foundation. It was reported last evening that Mrs. W. T. Vankirk was very severely injured in a runaway accident on Thursday evening and had been taken to St. Mary's hospital. This proved to be erroneous and Mrs. Vankirk can not understand how it happened unless it was due to the fact that her horse Thursday evening started for the barn while she was stepping down from the buggy, breaking her slightly. It was only a slight happening and she was not injured to speak of.

WITH THE WRIGHT BROTHERS AT DAYTON.

The old bicycle repair shop and present air ship factory of the Wright brothers, Wilbur Wright above and Orville Wright below.

(By Special Correspondent.) Dayton, Ohio.—After starting the world with their wonderful airplane and its flights and receiving the honors of the crowned heads of Europe, the second day at home found Wilbur and Orville Wright hard at work in their little two-story building on West Third street building aeroplanes.

Over the door of the little building in weatherworn and faded letters are the words, "Wright Cycle Co." Several years ago these words told the occupation of the Wright boys, but now the inside of the shop resembles anything but a bicycle store and repair shop. A few relics of the former business still remain, however. Deeply laden with dust a few bicycle fixtures may still be seen in a glass case against the wall and in a dark corner of the stairway a number of old bicycle frames are piled up out of the way. They, too, are covered with the dust of years.

Where the Wright aeroplanes are manufactured there is no imposing factory or busy furnished office. All the work done in four small rooms, and another little room fitted up as an office. The main room of the building, which is on the first floor in front, is used as a sort of store room. Leaning against the wall on one side are a number of white, canvas-covered wings and the floor is strewn with various parts of the flyer. On the opposite side of the room a large, flat pine box is standing on edge. It contains a part of the aeroplane which was in the memorable crash at Ft. Meyer last fall.

In the room, just back of this one is the machinery used in making the metal parts of the machine. All this work is done by Charles E. Taylor, who has been in the employ of the Wrights for nine years.

The rear room up stairs is stored full of spruce lumber shipped from West Virginia, which is used in making all the wooden parts of the machine. The work done is done in an adjoining front room, which is fitted up with a long work bench facing two large windows. The finished parts are stacked in piles along the walls in both rooms.

The office is in another front room. A desk, a typewriter and several chairs constitute the equipment. It is a small place, but letters are going out of it every day to officials of almost every leading nation in Europe and to all parts of America. While the famous aviators were in Europe Lord Wright, their brother, who has given up everything else to learn the flying business, looked after the business and built aeroplanes.

The Wrights have lost no time since they have been home. They have been at the shop every day working on an aeroplane which they want as near perfect as possible for the coming tests for Uncle Sam at Ft. Meyer. In fact they are so busy that when the committee conferred with them in regard to the coming celebration in June in their honor, they declared that they would scarcely have time for such an affair, but they agreed to do all they could toward making the celebration a success.

"Anyone can buy a machine for $7,500," said Wilbur Wright when asked concerning the sale of the flyer "and we will have it delivered ready for a flight by September 1." Both of the Wrights declared, however, that they would be too busy to teach the purchaser how to operate the machine at that time.

At the present time they have the parts for some five or six aeroplanes constructed and ready to be set up on short notice. It is not at all impossible that within a few years the Wright brothers will have a salesroom here with aeroplanes displayed for sale.

A queer fact in connection with the dangerous business in which the Wrights are engaged is that the other half of the building where their factory is located is occupied by an undertaking firm. The aeroplanes, however, do not regard their neighbor's business as an ill omen.

Little Essay on Man.
Do not surprise, oh, wondering and gentle wife, because the eminent, high and mighty husband-man blames you for everything that happens. Should the north wind blow down the chimney or blow the chimney down, be prepared to confess that it was all your doing. The only way to treat a man is with a laugh. And why shouldn't we, since men are quite the funniest creatures on the face of the earth? Many of them feel that they must roar and fuss and fume lest we forget their magnificence and greatness and superiority. Joke, isn't it?—Exchange.

The Largest Wheat Crop Raised On the Continent

was raised on Sunny Southern Alberta land last year. Alberta Red Winter Wheat sown on sod breaking yielded 60 bushels per acre of No. 2 hard, weighed 66 lbs. and sold at 78c per bushel. Marcellan Bolinger, who raised this crop, says, "I will pay for my land with this one crop."

The Canadian Pacific Railway wants traffic to keep its line busy. They own and irrigate this land. They want good hearty settlers, home makers, to come here and live. You are practically made a partner of the company until you have paid for your land.

NO CROPS, NO PAY

Pay $1.50 to $2.00 per acre down and the balance out of your crops. No crops, no pay. This is no ordinary offer. A great railroad is building this new country, and is selling its 3,000,000 acres of land at a very low price. They have prepared five interesting booklets telling all about this wonderful country. You can have them for the asking.

Which of these books do you want?

FACTS—Showing agricultural conditions, climate, combination farms, the production of cereals, alfalfa, timothy, stock raising, etc.

STARTING A FARM—The amount of money necessary. Answers all questions that a city man would ask. Shows advantages for raising a family and building a home in Alberta.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY—On

WE MEAN BUSINESS

In talking with a prospective buyer the other day, we said: "You're right, Mr. Blank, buy your lumber of mail order houses, scalpers or anyone else, if you can buy it cheaper than you can buy of us. But you must remember there are other things to consider than just the first price." Let us make a little comparison.

WHEN YOU BUY BY MAIL.

You must pay the freight, which amounts to 5% or more. You must do your own delivering from railroad to premises. You must take it all at once which necessitates storing. You may have too much, which perhaps will mean unnecessary waste. Your plans may be changed and you cannot return the material. You may not be satisfied with the quality. Had you seen it, you might not have taken it. You must pay cash before you get the material. (Buying a cat in the bag.) You will have to wait ten days or longer. You take a chance of getting the very poorest material that will grade up to specifications.

WHEN YOU BUY OF US.

We quote prices delivered. We deliver free. We deliver as you need it. If you have bought too much, you may return it and we refund the money. We will exchange the material. You see our material before you buy. You get our goods and pay afterwards. We always have stock on hand. The quality of our lumber is usually superior to grade specifications. You can see it before you buy.

Let us figure your next bill in competition with the mail order houses, scalpers, etc. If our prices are not as low as any competitor, quality for quality, we do not expect the business.

HER LOST HAIR IN $20,000 SUIT

COURT REFUSES TO QUASH WOMAN'S ACTION FOR $20,000 DAMAGES.

CAUSE SUFFICIENT, HE SAYS

Attorney for the Fair Plaintiff Argues That Trespassers Are Feminine Beauty Asset and Judge Quaries of Milwaukee Agrees.

Milwaukee, June 5.—Hear ye women of America! You have a right to go into court and sue for damages if you buy a cosmetic or hair dye and it spoils your beauty. Judge Quaries of this city has said so in refusing to throw out a $20,000 suit filed by a woman who lost her tresses.

A woman has a perfectly good cause for complaint in an action for damages if she loses her hair by reason of the application of chemicals, particularly so if the solution is advertised as being a hair restorer.

Overrules the Demurrer. Judge Quaries has overruled the demurrer of a company of Pond du Lac to the complaint of Mrs. M. J. Rowman to the effect that her complaint does not state a sufficient cause of action. He gave the defendant time to file their answer.

Mrs. Rowman, a traveling woman, sued the drug company and a St. Louis manufacturer of hair dye for $20,000 damages for the loss of her hair. She alleges its loss was caused by the application of hair stain purchased of the drug company and manufactured by the St. Louis company. The defendants demurred on the ground that the complaint failed to state a sufficient cause of action.

Hair Her Chief Beauty. "Her hair is woman's chief beauty," said the attorney for Mrs. Rowman, while arguing the case. "To paraphrase a well-known quotation, 'The who steals her pocketbook steals trash'—usually—but he who steals her hair takes that which cannot enrich him and leaves her poor indeed." "A woman's hair is one of her chief assets. That has come to be so well acknowledged that women nowadays are not content with nature's gifts, but purchase large quantities of bogus capillary vegetation in order to increase their assets."

Detroit, Mich., June 5.—The wooden steamer Iron Age, 226 feet long, burned to the water's edge ten miles southeast of Port Huron in Lake Erie yesterday. Capt. William J. Willoughby and his crew of nine escaped in a small boat, but lost all their personal effects.

So quickly did the vessel burn that scarcely 15 minutes elapsed between the discovery of flames around the smokestack and the order for the crew to take to the small boat. Capt. Willoughby and his crew were taken to Sandwich, Ont., by the steamer Warner. The Iron Age, valued at $32,000 and insured for $5,000, was owned by her captain, W. J. Willoughby, of Windsor, Ont., and her engineer, Richard Baxter, also of Windsor.

LA FOLLETTE'S REMARKS PACIFIC

MAKES A MILD REPLY TO THE ATTACKS MADE BY SENATORS.

EXPECTED QUARREL FAILS

Remains Calm as He Gives Penrose a Thrust About His Own Conduct and Forces Aldrich to Explain Cotton Schedules.

Washington, June 5.—Senator Aldrich will attempt to force a vote on the cotton schedule of the tariff bill today, the La Follette incident, which had promised a fireworks display yesterday, apparently having been settled.

Contrary to the general expectation the opening scene when Senator La Follette took the floor was quite pacific. Senator La Follette and Senator Gallinger had a friendly exchange of words relating to the refusal of the Wisconsin senator to yield to his New Hampshire colleague for a question.

Says He Was Not Ill. Senator La Follette then said he had not been sick, but after holding the floor over five hours did not feel in condition to continue at night and had remained at home to rest. He proceeded to relate personal experiences in his public life in Wisconsin, and so mild were both his manner and his language that there seemed to be no possibility of any further clash.

"As to the remarks of the senator from Pennsylvania," he said, "I would suggest that he would render a very important service to the country and to his state if he would account for the way he spends his time when absent from this body rather than in any effort to make me account for my time."

"I might add," continued the senator from Wisconsin, "that no man could undertake to account for the whereabouts of the senator from Pennsylvania without transgressing the rules of the senate and I do not."

Senator Penrose interrupting referred to an article in a magazine published by the senator from Wisconsin as misrepresenting himself and Pennsylvania. Reading the article complained of, Senator Penrose was promptly answered by Senator La Follette, who said the statements were taken from a newspaper and when denied by that publication were promptly withdrawn by his own magazine.

Senator Penrose asked to be referred to the denial and was assured that he would be furnished with the magazine containing it. Senator La Follette then proceeded with his analysis of the tariff bill.

Aldrich Answers La Follette. With the opening of the night session of the senate, Mr. Aldrich, chairman of the finance committee, proceeded to reply to Senator La Follette's attacks upon the committee amendments to the cotton schedule.

He told the 61 senators present that he proposed to make a statement explaining the committee's amendments "and correct any misapprehension that may have been instilled in their minds by a torrent of misinformation and misrepresentation."

Expecting that there would be a repetition of the interesting session of the night before a large crowd filled all the galleries. Close attention was given to Mr. Aldrich as he explained each amendment in detail.

Moran of that city as a witness in behalf of Mrs. Gould.

It was stated that Monday and Tuesday of next week might be required for the examination of Dr. Moran, and that the trial of the suit next probably would not be started before Wednesday.

ROCKEFELLER SAYS GOLF BEATS MONEY MAKING

Prefers the Game to Stock Market Where He Has Cleaned Up Many Millions.

EXPECTED QUARREL FAILS

New York, June 5.—Playing golf beats making money in the stock market according to John D. Rockefeller, who, with Mrs. Rockefeller, his sister-in-law and granddaughter returned to New York from Virginia Hot Springs. Mrs. Rockefeller is greatly improved in health.

"I have had a splendid time," said Mr. Rockefeller, "and we are greatly improved in health and spirits. I have golfed and golfed and golfed."

"What do you think of the financial situation and bull markets?" he was asked.

"Do you know," replied the 70-year-old millionaire, "that they have one of the best golf courses in the world down there where we've been? It's a lot more interesting than finance and the stock market. You know I'm out of that sort of thing. I'm a golfer now. Ask me something about golf, I'm way up in the game. See what a fan I've got?"

"But I am really glad to get back. I've been away five months, and it seems good to see New York again," Mr. Rockefeller said the death of H. H. Rogers had been a great blow to him. "It was sad, very sad," he said.

He was curious to know if there was more work for the unemployed than there had been. When told that there was apparently more work than formerly, he said:

"That's fine. I'm awfully glad to hear it."

TURKS AGAIN USE GUNS.

People Fear Repetition of the Massacre at Adana.
Alexandria, Asiatic Turkey, June 5.—There was some firing by Turkish soldiers on the village of Dentryul. No information regarding the casualties has been received. ### GUNBOAT REACHES CHICAGO.

Nashville Is Greeted as She Puts Into Port.
Chicago, June 5.—The historic gunboat Nashville, which has been assigned to the Illinois naval militia, was given a rousing welcome when it arrived here today. The members of the naval militia and a number of guests met the war vessel at Milwaukee and escorted it to Chicago, and as it entered the harbor it was greeted by several hundred yachts and other small craft, and all the steamers near by whistled their welcome.

In the afternoon a reception was held on board the gunboat.

The Nashville had the honor of making the first attack against the Spanish flag in 1898. Its armament consists of eight four-inch rapid fire guns, four six-pounders, two one-pounders, two gaffing and a torpedo tube. Capt. Warren F. Purdy and 110 men of the naval militia brought the vessel from Boston, through the St. Lawrence river, the canals and the great lakes.

FINED $15,000 FOR REBATING.

This closes the prosecution at Little Rock, which included indictments against these two railroads as well as the merchant who received the rebates and the former traffic official representing the companies who granted it. The latter two individuals had heretofore pleaded guilty and been fined $15,000 and $2,500 respectively.

governor has the power of commutation in this case. I find no force to the contention that there cannot be a commutation of the punishment of death to that of life imprisonment because commutation implies a less punishment, and life imprisonment is a greater punishment than death. The degree of punishment is not determined by the individual preference of the convict.

"The rotator argued that" he had never accepted the commutation, but he states in his printed points that commutation does not require his acceptance. Such, I think, is the law. In this the commutation differs from pardon, either absolute or conditional.

Case to Be Carried Up. "The whole proposition in effect is that the governor's act, ineffective to change the punishment, nevertheless remitted it. It is hard to see why the exercise of that power that cannot change a punishment in effect remits or abolishes it."

After the decision was rendered William L. McDonald, Patrick's counsel, said:

"We shall promptly take all the legal steps to bring Patrick's case into the higher courts. We have not an appeal by right from the appellate division, but that court can grant us an appeal if so disposed. If this is not done we shall get a writ of error and carry the case to the United States supreme court."

LONG TERM FOR CHAUFFEUR.

Must Go to Prison for at Least Seven Years.
New York, June 5.—A sentence of not less than seven years nor more than 20 years in Sing Sing prison was imposed upon William Darragh, a chauffeur, whose automobile ran down and killed Ingvard Trimble in this city on March 27.

Motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment were overruled. Ingvard Trimble was 13 years old and the son of R. J. Trimble, formerly of Covington, Ky. Darragh was "trying out" a car and moving at a fast rate, when his machine struck the boy. Leaving the boy lying in the street, Darragh kept the car going, and on the following day he fled from the city, hiding afterward arrested at Port Arthur, Tex.

HARRY K. THAW LOSES APPEAL

MUST REMAIN IN THE MATTEWAN ASYLUM DECLARES COURT.

PATRICK LIKewise FAILS

Slayers of Stanford White and William Marsh Rice Are Legally in Custody Says the Supreme Tribunal of New York.

New York, June 5.—The appellate division of the New York supreme court says Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, and Albert T. Patrick, who was convicted of murdering William Marsh Rice, must remain in the Matteawan asylum and Sing Sing penitentiary where they are respectively confined.

The appellate division held that Thaw accepted the alternative of confinement as insane when he pleaded insanity as a defense to the crime of slaying Stanford White.

Patrick, the court held, was legally in custody, as there was no doubt of the power of the governor to commute his sentence of death. Both defendants sued out writs of habeas corpus and the proceedings were upon appeals against decisions dismissing the writs.

Opinion in Patrick Case.

The Patrick opinion, which was written by Justice Jenks, and concurred in by the other members of the court, was in part:

SESSION'S WORK
IS ABOUT OVERGOVERNOR'S SIGNATURE NEEDED TO MANY LAWS.

WHAT WAS ACCOMPLISHED

Brief Resume of the Laws Passed and Legislation Discussed During the Winter.
was another important electric railway legislation passed which gives the railway companies more power in the selection of the kind of cars to be used.This legislation has been progressive so far as insurance legislation is concerned. Before the session opened, it was believed in insurance circles
that the excellent insurance code adopted two years ago was to be repealed by this legislature. None of the repeal bills received even a favorable recommendation from a committee.Instead, an addition has been made to the code of a chapter on insurance on the lines of the Illinois law defeated two years ago. Next in importance to the valuation bill is the bill which makes the statement of the insured to the company a mere representation instead of a warranty. A law prohibiting the giving of rebates by fire insurance agents is another meritorious measure. A measure which would have permitted liability companies to form combinations was voted by Gov. Davidson. The insurance legislation question was held over to the second session, with instructions to the legislature to report to the committee on a plan of taxation for the insurance companies.A banking legislation enacted at this session was also important. Compensation bills were introduced in the session whose main aim was to forbid banks from being organized for the purpose of receiving deposits. The bills were 1149 and 4868. The former measure simply forbids any person or institution to receive deposits from the public for the purpose of depositing the same in a bank, or for the purpose of receiving interest thereon.The object of this bill was undoubtedly to cut out department stores and country stores from receiving money on deposit. The bill 4868 is the trust company bill, and provides for the regulation of trust companies. It defines their duties and permits them to receive their deposits and to pay interest thereon. They are placed under the same restrictions as banks and are subjected to the examination of the state banking department. Other measures passed forbid state banks from in the future establishing branch banks, but permit them to receive deposits already established to remain and extend the service of the commissioner of banking
as to the winding up of insolvent bank corporations.In the way of changes in local government this legislature did very little although there was a host of bills in this subject. The most important measure passed was a committee bill
in regard to the examination of petitions for the purpose of amending the constitution and changing the mode of electing judges. Under the new law the petition must be extended to three months. It was passed with some amendments to extend three months to six months for certain cases, but was not passed in its original form. The bill was not passed in its original form. The bill was not passed in its original form. The bill was not passed in its original form.In the way of food legislation this legislature has done more than any of its predecessors and as a result the state of Wisconsin has today
the most complete pure food code of any state in the union. All the bills are not yet signed but they all will be and by the terms of the measures,
they will be in force. The Pure Food Commissioner has the power to prosecute any case where it is discovered that food for the table are being sold with adulterations of any kind. The general bill on the subject 512A, is in fact a most complete measure and it defines nearly all characters of food, which are prepared in any way.
The bill forbids the use of adulterants in any form. Special bills were passed on the subject of, worn apparel and adulterated food. Another bill forbids the use of adulterants
in any form as a preservative.
While other measures have been passed
and will be passed, it will be impossible to tell in advance whether they will be passed or not. The bills which are now pending up to the standards of the state laws, whether they be amendments or not. Not only food but other things have been looked after,
but also the feeding of stock prepared for animals. Another measure which passed the legislature compelling the feeding of the ingredients of these animal feeds on packages is designed to protect the buyer from fraud or injury to his stock. Still another
bill forbids the use of adulterants
in any form.The most important change in the criminal code is the raising of the penalty for kidnapping to life imprisonment. This is the outgrowth of the White Kidnapping cases but even if it was passed under stress of popular indignation, criminalologists hold that it is a good law. Most of the other changes in the criminal code are of a minor character and relate in large part to misdemeanors.
One of the changes in the civil code
is of extreme importance, makes it impossible to bring garnishment proceedings for a liquor debt.The most important constitutional amendments to secure recognition
from this legislature were measures passed two years ago and therefore will be submitted to the people at the next general election. One increases the salaries of members of the legislature from $200 to $1,000 while the other limits the right of voting franchise

to citizens of the United States, thus necessitating a residence of five years

instead of one year.

Of proposed constitutional amendments that failed are the resolution by Senator Gaylord granting right of suffrage to women; the Illinois resolution for the initiative and referendum and the Almsworth resolution up for the second session, raising the minimum school age from 4 to 6 years.
This latter resolution undoubtedly was defeated through the medium of the state federation of women's clubs,
which made a persistent and consistent fight against the plan.

Labor Legislation.

More was gained in the way of labor legislation than was expected in the early part of the session. The social democratic members from Milwaukee were largely responsible for this triumph and it can be stated that they worked faithfully and hard all through the session for measures deemed best for the laboring man.
The most important victory gained was the passage of 25A, limiting work
on all public contracts to eight hours a day. This bill was practically killed several times, but the assembly insisted the measure along under Mr.
Wobor's leadership, laying it over
and sending it back to committee repeatedly, until finally by a close vote
it was passed. The bill met with less trouble in the senate.The new child labor bill was another measure which encountered obstacles all through its career in the legislature. It was also followed carefully by the social democrats.
The principal features of this bill are the additional requirements demanded
as a basis for certificate permitting children from 14 to 16 to work. Skil-lature in these cases now will be required from the child's school principal to the effect that the candidate is efficient in studies, and of a physician to the effect that he regards the child physically capable to work
without harm to its future welfare.
A limitation also is placed upon persons having the child and hereafter they will have to be secured from a factory inspector or from a judge of records.The elimination of the term "outdoor employment," is another victory for the socialists and for labor. Gov.
Davidson, who it may be stated, put
his shoulder to the passing them,
was a big factor in passing them.
Under the new law, as introduced in this session, "outdoor labor," it was shown that children had been employed in heavy work in ten harvests and in handling of cartage and merchandise in eleven. Farm labor will be exempted from the provisions of the law. Another labor measure which was passed prohibits children under ten years of age from selling newspapers.
The bill declaring slavery and harboring not to be a work of charity or necessity, which is designated to close barber shops on the Sabbath, is another important labor measure.Of labor bills that failed of recognition the most important was the measure limiting hours of labor for women to nine hours a day and forbidding their employment between 6
p. m. and 7 a. m. The social democrats made a hard but futile fight for this bill, but could not secure its passage.

Blinder Twine Falls.

Of the general legislation the most important to be defeated was the blinder twine bill. This bill for additional appropriations, for a revolving fund of $100,000 and $100,000 to complete the plant of machinery in the building already constructed under the 1907 act, was defeated after a battle that attracted without doubt the most wide attention of any fight of the session. The defeat of the friends of the plant, however, was by no means a rout and from a strongly entrenched position, in the fact that they now have a well organized legislative support upon which they can depend.
These persons are preparing a campaign to gain their end. At the special session next January they intend to renew their fight. The original law creating the plant was not repealed and the friends will come back to the special session and ask for a special appropriation under exemption of the rules to complete the plant. As far as the legislative history is concerned, the blinder twine fight saw the most pronounced lobbying of the session except, perhaps,
that which always is notoriously incident to the excise legislation. Another important bill which failed in this legislature was the Stout reform-
ism measure to submit to the voters
the question of granting women's suffrage. Penalties for supreme court judges were provided in another bill,
which met early defeat.

Educational Measures.

Educational legislation attracted
more than usual attention at this session. The Wisconsin Teachers' association bill paying the way to eliminating the election system for county school superintendents was killed.
The "association for years" has advanced a system whereby the county school boards could appoint a superintendent, thus securing more efficient supervision of schools. Two univer-

Uncle Sam will need bold postal ex-

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

Food Specialist.

SPRING FOOD.

Climate and season should
largely determine food selection.
A Cuban would not thrive on an Esquimo's diet. Our summer and winter's diet should differ materially. More fresh fruit should be eaten in spring and summer. The intake of starch should be reduced as the spring opens, and meat, if used at all,
should be eaten sparingly. Lettuce, uncooked cabbage, celery, and tomatoes, valued in the order named, can often be eaten alone with advantage, when there is little appetite for heavy food; especially by the nervous
woman and the school girl.
Cucumbers, uncooked and with out vinegar, may also be eaten as a spring food medicine. The best time to eat these is in the morning when a heavy meal should never be eaten in the spring. Lemon juice may be substituted for vinegar and olive oil is not specially incompatible with green vegetables.

sly measures that attracted great

attention and finally became laws placed women on the same basis as men students and provided for a membership of at least two women
on the university board of regents.
Still another university bill which brought thousands of letters to members was the "Wobor" bill taking from the university faculty the authority of making up the high school accredited list and placing it in the state superintendent's hands. This bill went over to the special session.One of the bills opposed by the university alumni was the "Twelve" measure granting hearings to expelled students. This bill was killed. No free text-book laws were passed at this session, although numerous measures were introduced. The only free textbook bill that was granted opportunity for debate was a social democratic measure introduced by Senator Gaylord. It went the way of the other Assemblyman bill was persistent all through the session in attempting to increase the available funds for the common schools. He thought this had been accomplished
when he secured the passage in the assembly of a bill requiring that the state's portion of the inheritance tax
be turned over to the school fund.
The bill was killed in the senate.

Money for Normals.

The school appropriations this session all were large and in the instance of the normal schools money
was allowed for a change in policy permitting the introduction of the dormitory system. A $50,000 dormitory is to be built at Superior. Provision was made for three more compound training schools for teachers. Endorsement also was given the plan for the remodeling of teachers' two hills, one applying to the state at large and another to Milwaukee being passed.University appropriations were not of the amount desired by the faculty and regents, but closely approached them. Sufficient money was given to carry out determined policies. A millimum salary bill for county teachers
was introduced but was killed.
Voters by Governor.Gov. Davidson has been sparing of vetoes at this session. The most far-reaching bill to which he objected was the measure permitting surety bond and liability insurance companies to form boards after the fashion of the Milwaukee fire underwriters' board, allowing it to fix rates and standards. He vetoed this on the ground that it would amount to a trust under state laws. The bill requiring farmers' mutual fire insurance companies was vetoed but was passed over the veto. The bill dictated the manner of dividing a company's surplus upon liquidation. The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Hoyt.
Public Health.The public health did not get extensive recognition at this session.
Most of the bills on this subject brought out vigorous contests and several failed. The Christian Scientists by their activity defeated the bill providing instruction in public schools concerning hygiene and contagion.
Their opposition was based on the theory that the instruction would suggest disease and create panic. The bill for the collection of industrial statistics on workers was passed. The usual appropriation bill for the state board of health also was passed, and was also a bill providing for the state sanitary and livestock board in the work of extending and maintaining sanitary cattle. The bill forbidding any newspapers published outside the state from circulating within Wisconsin, if they contain medical advertisements prohibited in Wisconsin papers, was passed. The moment house bill
was a sanitary measure of importance,
it is included in the bills of peculiar interest to Milwaukee.

Experience Proves.

Time tells which is best and most reliable.
For 20 years Perry Davis' Pain-Ex-tractor has been driving away pain and bringing health
as a remedy for sprains, burns, bruises, rheumatism, neuralgia, it cures colds, cramps, head complaints. But be sure to take this unparalleled remedy promptly. Large bottles 25 cents or larger 50 cents.

The Old Adam.

I wonder why three-fourths of the stenographers in business offices are women? "I guess it is because men like to feel that there is at least one class of women whom they can dictate to."

MUCH HIGH GRADE
WORK BEING DONEGazette Printing Department Has Just Finished Many Fine
Catalogs.During the past month or six weeks
several large pieces of fine printed matter have come from the printing department of the Gazette and among them another issue of the Parker Pen company's "Slide Teller" in two colors, illustrated from original pen drawings and carrying out a reasonable idea connecting the present baseball fever with the Parker Pen product.
This material receives a wide circulation and the quality of the printing is such as to reflect credit not only upon the Parker Pen company, but on the Gazette as well.Another large run of catalogs has been completed for the Janesville Thaw Wire Co., handsomely illustrated with half-tones and with a specially designed cover, which brings the feature points of the "Apex" fence into prominence.Other large runs of process color work have been produced for the Carle Co., whose business on fireless cookers is increasing by leaps and bounds, and the advertising which
this company gives to the city, combined with that of the many other prominent industries of the community, is far-reaching and effective. A considerable amount of fine color work has been produced also for the Hough Shade corporation and there are but few cities in the country of any size that are not familiar with the product of this concern. Also a large run of thirty-two-page reprints for Dr. J. P. Thorne taken from recent issue of the Wisconsin Medical Recorder has come from the press of the printing department and each month the regular edition of the Medical Recorder is turned out by the Gazette for Dr. Thorne, and has been for the past ten or twelve years. This publication has a wide circulation, reaching physicians, not only in this country, but in many of the foreign countries.The Wisconsin Carriage Co. have been furnished with some nicely illustrated work, showing the carriages,
sleighs and cutters which are the product of that concern. A two-color catalog, handsomely illustrated from half-tones, for the new John C. Nichols Harness Mfg. concern, has recently been completed. The illustrations of harnesses produced in that and a harness plate over that in a black, so that the reproduction is perfect.

Printed matter of ordinary value does much to strengthen the impression of the goods manufactured

and the Gazette's printing department has ample facilities for producing
work of the highest grade.BRENNAN AND BURKE
